 AN ENCOURAGING FIND: THE FAMILY HISTORY GUIDE WEBSITE ***

by Fred Hoffman <wfh@langline.com>

It's fascinating how you can get online, just start looking around, and find all kinds of interesting and useful sites you never knew about. As an example, I was trying to come up with something to write about, and I happened to stumble across this:

<<https://www.thefhguide.com/project-9-poland.html>>

It's one of many pages on the Family History Guide website. I don't recall hearing about this site before; but its Intro page is dated 18 July 2017. So, in Internet terms, it's all of six months old! Hardly a newcomer....

The page on Poland intrigued me, so I started looking around at the other items on this site. I like what I see. Their mission statement is as follows: "Our mission is to greatly increase the number of people actively involved in family history worldwide, and to make everyone's family history journey easier, more efficient, and more enjoyable." The site is independent from FamilySearch and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, but is approved by them; and it links to all sorts of pages on the FamilySearch site, as well as, Ancestry, MyHeritage, and Findmypast sites.

The Family History Guide site is free and does not accept advertising, although it links to some commercial sites to highlight free resources there. It does not contain genealogical records; but it "helps you learn how to use the vast record sources at FamilySearch, Ancestry, Findmypast, MyHeritage, etc. You can use a number of links in The Family History Guide to go directly to popular search pages by location or record type."

Perhaps the most attractive feature of the site is how clearly everything is presented, in a manner easy to follow and use. The guide offers newcomers to genealogy a clean, uncluttered overview of many different aspects of research; and you can click on numerous links that let you follow each lead.

It's especially good for Polish genealogy because the "Countries" tab at the top of the page lets you find and access pages on different countries quickly and easily. Given that Polish research requires learning something about Germany, Russia, Ukraine, Austria-Hungary, Lithuania, etc., this sort of easy access is encouraging.

I also like the specific goals laid out, and the links that take you to sites where you can learn more. On the Poland page, for instance, these are the goals:

Goal 1: Learn about Poland research and records.

- Goal 2: Learn about Poland archives and libraries.
- Goal 3: Learn about Poland census and vital records.
- Goal 4: Learn to use Poland church and cemetery records.
- Goal 5: Learn about Poland emigration and immigration.
- Goal 6: Learn about Poland maps.
- Goal 7: Learn about Polish newspapers.
- Goal 8: Explore additional websites for research.
- Goal 9: Search records from Poland.
- Goal 10: Get Help with your Poland research.

Each goal is followed by a list of choices, specific steps you can take toward attaining that goal, with links to web resources designed to help in that task. For instance, under Goal 1, The sixth option is “Learn about online Polish genealogy databases.” You click on it, and it takes you to <<https://www.thoughtco.com/polish-genealogy-databases-online-1422285>>. That page presents brief descriptions and links to twenty different online databases, from PGSA to Geneteka to JewishGen Poland to the Poznań Marriage Indexing Project to Rzeszów Vital Records, plus fifteen more.

I could go on and on, but why do that when you can go evaluate it for yourself? See if you agree with me that this is a great site for beginners; but even experienced researchers may visit it frequently because it organizes and links to so many useful resources.

I’m really pleased to see a sort of “one-stop” site devoted to genealogy in its many different aspects. If you can’t start with this site and get rolling quickly, maybe you should consider another hobby.

 LETTERS TO THE EDITOR *****

Subject: Translator Karol Jarzyński recommended

I would very much appreciate it if could put this recommendation in the next issue of Rodziny and Gen Dobry!? I feel very passionate about this translator in Poland. His name is Karol Jarzyński; he lives and works in Poland.

I first met him through Polish Origins, when I posted ten documents that I thought were Polish. It turned out two were in Russian. The documents were vital church records, birth, marriage, death records, and they belong to my distant cousin in the United States. She has been trying to get them translated word for word, not an overall description. Karol translated the documents in less than two days. I sent them to my cousin and she couldn't believe what a great job Karol did, she was so happy! I paid Karol for his work as a present to my cousin. And, let me tell you, it was very, very, inexpensive.

Karol could use the translation work. Please join me in helping a very nice translator continue in the love of his life, translating. His contact information is:

Karol Jarzyński <karolpolishorigins@gmail.com>

Dziękuję,

Larry Mandeville

Editor – People are always looking for good translators whose rates are reasonable. I'm glad to pass the word along to our readers.

 UPDATE ON KRONIKA BUKOWSKO *****

by Debbie Greenlee <daveg@airmail.net>

Editor—We mentioned this CD in previous issues, so I thought it advisable to publish this update. I hope you don't mind if I revisit this subject. This project strikes me as one worthy of support.

Due to the recent postal increase, I have had to increase the price of the CD, Kronika Bukowsko.

Regular price = $23.50 – $20.00 will be given to the Bukowsko kindergarten.

Indexing Volunteers = $18.50 – $15.00 will be given to the Bukowsko kindergarten.

After years of work on a translation of a Bukowsko school diary (started during Akcja Wisła), the Kronika Bukowsko is ready and for sale on a CD. You will certainly be moved when reading this chronicle/diary.

Background Information

Several years ago, on one of my research trips to Bukowsko, I was given part of a diary or chronicle of the school in Bukowsko written during the end of World War II and Akcja Wisła by Kazimiera Kochańska. It was in Polish, and my limited ability in that language was insufficient to read most of it. But I was so moved by the part that I could figure out that I felt compelled to have the chronicle translated into English. Kochańska's heartfelt writings needed to be made public to the English-speaking world. This undertaking turned out to be no small feat. Aside from trips to Poland, over 400 hours was invested in this project, and several other people helped.

Kazimiera Kochańska was a teacher, school principal, and civic advocate who was beloved by all. A memorial plaque in her honor was placed on the elementary school in Bukowsko several years ago and she was again honored in June 2016 (see my Trip Diary June 2016 at <<http://www.polishfamily.com>>).

The CD contains images of the original text, a transcription in Polish, an English translation, and photos.

My hope is that those who read this Kronika will gain a better understanding of what life was like for the Polish residents in Bukowsko and neighboring villages, especially right after World War II, when Poles and UPA (banderowcy) were fighting for dominance in the region. My hopes for this project, however, would have never seen fruition were it not for the untiring efforts and exceptional expertise of Roman Kałużniacki in translating and organizing this work. I also have to thank my gene-valet, Dave Greenlee, for his support and computer help.

Copies of the CD cost $23.50, which includes the CD and postage. People who transcribed or indexed 50 pages of records or 50 cemetery headstones for my previous projects will receive a $5.00 discount ($18.50).

Please contact me privately to order. If, by chance, you have my NEW address, please include a note stating how you heard about the book.

 GENETEKĄ – NEW INDEXES *****

by Waldemar Chorązewicz

Editor—If you are on Facebook, the Polish Genealogy group is worth investigating: <<https://www.facebook.com/groups/50089808265/>>. One particularly valuable contributor, Waldemar Chorązewicz, frequently posts updates on new indexes at Geneteka. His primary language is Polish, but his postings are easy to read. The abbreviation U is for births, M is for marriages, and Z is for deaths. Unless I'm very much mistaken, the abbreviations in parentheses after the place names specify which province that province is in (because so many place names are used for more than one locality): KP for Kujawsko-Pomorskie, Ld for Łódzkie, MP for Małopolskie, MZ for Mazowieckie, PK for Podkarpackie, PL for Podlaskie, SK for Świętokrzyskie, SL for Śląskie or Silesia, WP for Wielkopolskie, and so on. (You can see the standard two-letter abbreviations here: <https://pl.wikipedia.org/wiki/Powiaty_w_Polsce>). The name following indeksował or indeksowała or indeksowali is that of the person or organization who did the indexing. He lists the indexes by date. Here's a sample.

 WHAT ARE YOUR GENEALOGY GOALS FOR 2018? ***

by Aga and the PolishOrigins Team <info@polishorigins.com>

Editor—As usual, here is the latest mailing from the team at PolishOrigins.com. They have a lot of good things to offer English-speaking researchers!

What are your genealogy goals for 2018?

Are you a good planner? Are you setting your goals and making a task list from time to time? Of course, reality sometimes ruins our plans brutally, but it is always better to know what you want to achieve. This is also true in genealogy.

It is easier to have clear, precise goals in front of you and to achieve them step by step.

Here are some small tips that might help you to pick out what is the most important for you in your family history research, and to focus on it.

Before setting your goal, summarize what you have. Maybe it is a briefcase of loose documents and you do not know what to do with them. Maybe you need to create a basic genealogy tree (you can use Ancestry, MyHeritage or any other free and paid applications). Maybe you need to meet with your aunt, grandparents, any other relatives, talk with them and learn what they know. If you have been researching for many years, you may only need to sum up what you have achieved so far, and determine what is stopping you from moving forward. Or, maybe you already had some goals set, that are still waiting for action.

Choose one, small segment you want to research. Pick one of your grandparents, one village, one family branch.

Split your goal into smaller actions – prepare the list of tasks.

Set the time frames. For example, one small task per week.

And here is the last one, that for me works the best: Share your goals with others. Maybe you know someone who is also interested in genealogy? Let's do it together: you can motivate, check and compete or share with each other. Achieving your goals might be your small game. And when you reveal your goals it is harder to resign.

If you do not know of such a person, join our Forum <<https://forum.polishorigins.com/>> or any other social website, and there you should find some motivation and support.

On our website, you can create a personal page with your goals and basic information about your genealogy search. You can focus on one village or parish. There is a section “Villages and towns of our ancestor’s origins” <<https://forum.polishorigins.com/viewforum.php?f=28>>. Create a post there and gather as much information, along with photos, as you possibly can.

You can also focus on one person from your tree. Post in section “In search of relatives / Poszukiwani krewni” <<https://forum.polishorigins.com/viewforum.php?f=23>>.

Recently we have prepared a simple manual for all our new members <<https://forum.polishorigins.com/viewtopic.php?t=7100>>. For now, there are three basic parts:

1. How to Register
2. Posting Your First Message
3. Creating Your Personal Page

On PolishOrigins website, we have several tools and possibilities that can help you with your goals. Most of all do not miss our databases for Surnames <<https://polishorigins.com/surnames/>> and Places <<https://polishorigins.com/places/>>. They are based on all of the personal pages of our users (mentioned above); currently, we have 16,617 surnames and 11,092 places in our database. In the database, you can easily find other Forum members interested in “your” surnames and places, and connect with them. Try it now! Maybe you will find some connection or a person who could share your goals.

Another useful tool is the search tool on our website. It can be found in the top right corner on our home page.

At the search results you will see all users mentioning requested surnames and places (this is also based on personal pages), but also all Forum posts, and articles published on our website. This is very easy and fast, but who knows what you can find. Our forum has existed for over 10 years, so there are tons of information available to you.

Will you accept this challenge? What are your genealogy goals in 2018?

Let us know!

PGSA MEETING: HALLER'S POLISH ARMY IN FRANCE

Speaker: Paul S. Valasek, D.D.S.

Fountaindale Public Library District • 300 W. Briarcliff Road • Bolingbrook, IL 60440
2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Attendance at the library is free and open to members and non-members.

The presentation will also be offered as a free Webinar to members. To defray costs, non-members will be charged a $10 fee. Webinar registration for members and non-members can be made at the PGSA website <<http://www.pgsa.org>> by clicking on the PGSA Bookstore tab, then clicking on the "Webinars" tab and following instructions. Mail-in registrations will not be accepted.

Topic Summary – An in-depth discussion of this fighting force of over 23,000 men with origins in Pittsburgh, recruited from North America, trained by the Canadians, outfitted by the French, to serve alongside the French Army in World War I, and later to establish Poland's eastern borders in the Polish-Soviet War of 1919-1920.

Bio – Paul S. Valasek is a three-time graduate of Loyola University of Chicago, earning his Doctorate in Dentistry in 1984. Born and raised in Chicago, he and his wife Andrea have always been interested in their ancestries and where their families came from in Europe. Paul's first of numerous trips to Europe was in 1974 with his immigrant grandfather Joseph Valasek, a major turning point in his life.

Dr. Valasek has written numerous articles for genealogical publications, as well as being an international lecturer. He completed his first book, Haller's Polish Army in France (2006) which makes available long-lost and obscure material detailing the formation of this fighting force of over 23,000 Polish Americans in World War I and the subsequent Polish Soviet War of 1919-1921. He also has the most complete database of the army, with over three million facts accumulated to date.

Formal participation in genealogy began with his Presidency of the Polish Genealogical Society of America (PGSA). He was founder and treasurer/editor of the Czech and Slovak American Genealogical Society of Illinois (CSAGSI), a founding member of the Moravian Historical Society, and a founding member of the popular Polish American website, <<http://www.PolishRoots.org>>. He has also served as a Director and Second Vice-president on the Illinois State Genealogical Society's Board as well as sitting for multiple terms on the board of the Polish Museum of America. Ukrainian History and Education Center First-Ever Virtual Conference for Ukrainian Genealogy

The Ukrainian History and Education Center (UHEC) is proud to announce the first-ever virtual event for Ukrainian genealogy. Nashi Predky (Our Ancestors), the family history group of the UHEC, will be hosting their 2018 Spring Workshop virtually on Saturday, March 17th.

Since the group's formation in 2013, all of the workshops and annual conferences have been held at the Ukrainian Cultural Center in Somerset, New Jersey. This year, the committee is excited to offer this event to fellow researchers who may not be able to travel for an in-person event.

The one-day event will begin at 9 a.m. with welcoming remarks from the event Chairperson Justin Houser, and the UHEC Archivist Michael Andrec. The workshop agenda includes four presentations with Question & Answer periods as well as breaks between sessions.

Attendees will watch presenters from around United States and Poland speak on the following topics:

- Greek Catholics in Poland and Family Research by Tadeusz Piłat (Poland)
- Introduction to Ukrainian Genealogy by Justin Houser (Pennsylvania)
- Introduction to DNA and Genetic Genealogy by Paul Woodbury (Utah)
- A Historical Overview of Ukraine by Michael Andrec (New Jersey)

Using the GoToWebinar online conferencing platform, attendees can view the presentations from anywhere in the world on their own computer or mobile device with an Internet connection. Those attending the live sessions can also actively participate in the talks and ask questions through a special chat feature. Presentations will be archived for a 72-hour period after the event ends.

To learn more about the event, including lecture descriptions and speaker bios, and to complete the online registration, please visit the event page:

<<https://www.ukrhec.org/nashi-predky-online-workshop-2018>>

Don't hesitate! There are fewer than 100 spaces available for the online event.

About Nashi Predky:

Nashi Predky, the family history group of the Ukrainian History and Education Center, has been helping families discover their Ukrainian ancestral roots since 2013. They hold two genealogical events annually, including a multi-day Fall Conference.

PGSA MEETING

Topic: NAVIGATING THE COOK COUNTY CLERK OF THE CIRCUIT COURT ARCHIVES – CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Speaker: Ray Johnson

Location: Arlington Heights Memorial Library • 500 N. Dunton Avenue • Arlington Heights, IL 60004

2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

This presentation is open to the public and will also be offered as a Webinar to members and non-members. Additional Webinar registration information will be posted on the PGSA Home Page <<http://www.pgsa.org>>, PGSA Notebook, and Rodziny in advance of the meeting.

Topic Summary – The Circuit Court Archives are a great, often overlooked resource. This class concentrates on a very practical approach to on-site court research including, civil, law and chancery cases, divorces, wills and probates, county naturalizations, declarations of intentions, criminal cases and burnt records.

Speaker's Bio – Ray was born in Chicago and has been a life-long resident of the Chicagoland area. He is also a life-long enthusiast of Chicago history, legends, and folklore. He has been actively involved in genealogical research for over 30 years with the last 9 as a professional genealogist and lecturer and is a former Chicago Area Chapter Representative and current member of the Association of Professional Genealogists.

He is a former gang/narcotics investigator and police instructor with the West Chicago Police Department in Du Page County and upon leaving police work, started his own historical and genealogical research company at <<http://www.historycop.com>> where he provides research services for other authors, television shows, researchers, attorneys and family historians.

Ray is a Chicago history blogger on ChicagoNow (owned by the Chicago Tribune) under the name Chicago History Cop and has published two books through Schiffer Publishing entitled Chicago's Haunt Detective (2011) and Chicago History: The Stranger Side (2014) Both books look at the stranger side of Chicago history from an investigator and historian's perspective.

He has taught classes in Genealogical research for the LaGrange Park District, Lyons Township Adult Education and for Lyons Township High School Life Skills Classes. He was also a police instructor with the Northeast Multi Regional Training Corporation and taught classes at College of DuPage under the criminal justice curriculum.

Ray is currently a member of the Association of Professional Genealogists, The Jackson Park Advisory Council and runs a 501c3 called Friends of The White City which educates the public on the historical significance of the 1893 World's Columbian Exposition.

The 18 January 2018 issue of Nu? What's New? mentioned a genealogical search engine I had not heard of, Genealogy in Time, available at the above URL. Gary Mokotoff suggested it is well worth trying because it may include links you overlooked on websites you've visited before and overlooked. Among the sites it searches are Genealogical Index, FindAGrave, and JewishGen. Just out of curiosity, I tried a search for Dąbrowa Białostocka (without the diacritical marks) and found several sites I expected, including JewishGen results – but also obituaries for people from Bridgeport and Derby, Connecticut, as well as a link to Geneteka results for birth, marriage, and death records from Wizajny parish in Podlaskie, Poland! A search using the diacritical marks returned most of the same results, but added a few new ones. I'd say serious researchers need to take a look at this.

The 7 January 2018 issue of Nu? What's New? mentioned that an index to heads of Jewish households in Kyiv gubernia found in the 1897 Russian Census has been placed online. The project is the work of professional genealogist Sarah Nadia Lipes, and is a work in progress. It was funded by Henry Louis Gates, Jr., who hosts Finding Your Roots. It is free, and the search is done using letters of the Roman alphabet, not Cyrillic.

The 22 January 2018 issue of Eastman's Online Genealogy Newsletter [EOGN] included an article with the title "The Health 202: NIH wants 1 million Americans to contribute to a new pool of gene data." EOGN gave this link to the article, which appeared in the Washington Post. Very interesting – you may want to look into this.

<<http://www.qualifiedgenealogists.org/ojs/index.php/JGFH>>

The same issue of EOGN mentioned that the first edition of The Journal of Genealogy and Family History has been published. This is a peer-reviewed, scholarly publication that exists only online. You can download articles from the first issue or learn how to submit an article at the above URL. I have to admit I'm not impressed by the first issue. I suppose the key words "peer-reviewed" and "scholarly" should have warned me what to expect (yawns a-plenty, and certainly no hint that any such place as central or eastern Europe even exists). But maybe one of our readers will write and submit an article that gets published and is not a cure for insomnia! (I can dream, can't I?)

<<http://gentod.com/A.mv?Y=8-25714&xz=EM2589-1>>

The 28 January 2018 issue of Genealogy News included this link to a story in the Family History Daily, "The Vast Majority of Genealogy Records Still Can't Be Found Online: Here's How to Locate Them." There are still many misguided souls who think "It's all online," and they are doomed to frustration. If you know the truth up front, you won't get disappointed and give up when you discover genealogy may require more than clicking your mouse a few times.

<<https://familytreewebinars.com/BCG>>

Jan Meisels Allen posted a note to the JewishGen newsgroup, explaining that the Board for Certification of Genealogists (BCG) is offering a series of free webinars through Legacy Family Tree Webinars. They are held at 8 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month. They are free at the time they are held and for seven days afterward; after that, there is a moderate fee to access them. The list of webinars can be viewed at the above link. They look interesting; you might want to try viewing one or two.

<<http://genealogyindexer.org/>>

Genealogy Indexer has added a long list of address and business directories for German cities, too many to list here. More than a dozen for Polish cities formerly in German territory include 1927 for Allenstein [Olsztyn]; several different years for Elbing [Elbląg]; 1943 for Goldberg (Schlesien) [Złotoryja]; 1936 for Greifenberg (Pommern) [Gryfice]; 1913 and 1938/1940 for Küstrin [Kostrzyn nad Odrą]; 1931 for Landsberg (Warthe) [Gorzów Wielkopolski]; and 1936 for Leobschütz [Głubczyce]. Logan Kleinwaks, the webmaster, added that very few of the images require the DjVu plugin now; most are PDFs or JPEGs.

The 28 January 2018 issue of Nu? What's New? mentioned that Library and Archives Canada (LAC) has just released its newest search tool, Collection SearchBETA. It's a beta version and the public is invited to try it and submit reactions. This search engine, upon completion, will let users to search all the collections available to the public at LAC from one starting point. The announcement can be read at the above URL.
